Mock CBC Laboratory Reference

Test: Complete Blood Count (CBC).

Purpose: A CBC is commonly used to assess several types of blood cells.

Example components: Hemoglobin, hematocrit, red blood cell count, white blood cell count, and platelet count.

Interpretation: Results should be interpreted using the laboratory reference range and clinical context by a qualified healthcare professional.

All values and descriptions are simplified mock content for RAG testing.